Welcome to the new, quarterly Englewood Magazine!
This consolidates our multiple publications into one, which saves us money and allows us to better use our resources to highlight more points of pride for our local community.

I’m also happy to invite you to our first State of the City event on June 1 from 6:00 – 8:00 PM at the Englewood City Center. I hope this additional communication from the City will improve public perception of Englewood as a place to live and do business. We have a wonderfully unique story to tell with our rich local history and strong local arts and business communities.

I’d also like to invite you to our 2nd Annual Englewood Job Fair on May 18 from 2:30 – 5:00 PM at the Englewood City Center. This is a great service to both our businesses, who need help finding local talent, and our residents, who are looking for careers or part-time work. Last year we had 32 local primary employers participate with over 500 positions available!

We hope you are as excited as we are about all the new and planned businesses in Englewood! On the 3200 – 3400 blocks of South Broadway, business owners have begun jointly promoting a “Final Friday” art, food and music night. Please join us in downtown Englewood the last Friday of every month for food and drink specials and support our local entrepreneurs! I hope to see events like these gain momentum; the City is already working with the community to develop a new “Signature Event” to celebrate and promote our great City. Stay tuned for details! We also plan more public improvements in 2017 to our historic downtown to develop a better identity and attract more needed activity and vitality.

Englewood relies heavily on the sales and use taxes generated by our local businesses – when local business succeeds, we succeed as a community. We have been hard at work creating an environment that fosters a robust local economy with our revamped Economic Development Incentives Program and new partnerships with the US Small Business Administration and Aurora Small Business Development to provide many additional local resources for Englewood businesses.

As many of you know, I host monthly community meetings to help inform the community and to get feedback. I believe that with this feedback, I can better represent the entire community. The monthly meetings are held at the Twin Dragon Restaurant, 3021 S. Broadway. I typically host these meetings on the last Wednesday of every month at 6:00 PM. Take a look at my webpage for schedule updates or email me with “Add Me” in the subject line to be added to the list for email notifications. It is an honor to serve our community. As always, I invite your comments, questions, or concerns.

Respectfully,

Joe Jefferson, Mayor

Given the many comments and questions I’ve heard lately about our recent property tax bills, I’d like to explain the process that has occurred since the election last November.

Last November, the residents of Englewood passed a ballot initiative regarding a General Obligation bond for a new police facility. Shortly thereafter, City Council voted unanimously to raise the mill levy in order to secure financing for the new building. Because this process was completed prior to the end of 2016, our current tax bills reflect the new mill levy. Property values in Arapahoe County were not reassessed last year. So comparing this year’s tax bill to last year’s tax bill will give an accurate picture of how much your taxes increased due to the Police and School Bond issues.

Earlier this year, City Council approved an agreement with CBRE, in the amount of $525,000 for project management and workplace strategy services on the design and construction of the new Englewood Police Department building. CBRE subsequently issued an RFQ (Request for Qualifications) with the intent to hire an Architectural and Engineering firm to help with the design and construction. It is anticipated that construction will start in November this year and that the new facility will be ready by October 2018.

Because of all the questions surrounding the property taxes, I co-hosted a Town Hall meeting in March featuring Arapahoe County Assessor Marc Scott and County Treasurer Sue Sandstrom. This meeting proved to be very informative about processes and issues regarding our property taxes. All Englewood residents should be receiving their new property tax valuation in early May.

Currently, one of the major agenda items for City Council Study Sessions is the City budget. Last year we instituted Priority Based Budgeting and now we’re just beginning to get detailed information on the process. We will be meeting with each department of the City and by October should be well on our way to completing the budget process. In my opinion, Englewood’s most pressing need is to make sure we have a sustainable, balanced budget.

I consider it a great privilege and responsibility to be your public servant. If you have any questions or concerns do not hesitate to contact me. For more information about future Town Hall meetings or Coffee with Rita, check the City website or contact me directly.

Some years ago, my eldest son played for the Englewood Pirates football team. One of the things I used to hear when I went to the games was “Englewood Pride.” I came to wonder if we should only be proud of our school, team or other players solely when we are playing sports. Can we have that same level of pride for the place in which we live? I believe we can perpetuate that pride in all aspects of our community.

I love this quote from Dwight D. Eisenhower who said, “This world of ours…must avoid becoming a community of dreadful fear and hate, and be, instead, a proud confederation of mutual trust and respect.” I am proud to live in a vibrant community that values and respects our differences as well as common goals. There is a true commitment to “mutual trust and respect” which permeates throughout our neighborhoods. We are all welcome here!

Having served now for over seven years as City Councilman and as Mayor Pro Tem has revealed amazing members of our community. Many show their pride in how they keep their homes, others in how they serve their community on Boards and Commissions, or how they serve privately on volunteer positions that may never get the recognition or acknowledgment they deserve. These members of our community, like many of you, want to do their part to make this City, our home, better for others. I am so thankful for them and hope to be counted as one of them! Englewood Proud!

So, what is there to be proud of? Well, I am limited to the amount of words I can use, so I will briefly list them: A strong historical heritage that put roots in our community well over 100 years ago; a park system that is the envy of other cities with amazing bike trails, recreation centers, and well-groomed spacious parks; an infrastructure of streets and utilities that serves the needs of our community well; a local government and Council committed to the safety and well being of its citizens served by an amazing and professional police force; and most of all – each other!

Let’s all be “Englewood Proud”!

Rick Gillit, Mayor Pro Tem, District 4

Welcome to the inaugural edition of the Englewood Citizen magazine! We are so excited to have this new medium with which to communicate to the world concerning all things Englewood, Colorado.

As our organization continues to evolve and becomes more focused on how we interact with the community, we want to provide a more sophisticated and information-filled periodical that contains more than just factual stories on the happenings of the City. The new Englewood Citizen magazine was created to continue to share this type of information and also to dig deeper into the community. We’re excited to highlight the incredible people, places, businesses, and events that make Englewood the lively and connected community it is.

Throughout the year, we will be spotlighting the work of each department in the City as well as providing convenient information on whom to contact at the City for common issues and concerns.

We will also be improving the City’s website to better reflect the City’s new brand as well as modernizing the interface to help facilitate doing business with the City.

This year, the focus of the City organization is on what we are calling the Englewood 5; our strategic plan’s focus for 2017. These five concepts are improved communication, both internally and externally; improved safety and security for both the community and our employees; implementation of a new compensation program; improved employee evaluation and accountability system; and a focus and concentration on our fiscal fundamentals for a sustainable budget and future.

Thank you for the honor of serving this community. It is our desire to provide timely, interesting, and functional information in a transparent format that everyone will appreciate and enjoy.

Here’s a little-known story about a bridge, a toll road, a farm, an irrigation ditch and two oak trees. It hearkens back to before there was a settlement in what is now Englewood, but it relates to the growth and development in the area we call home.

Prospectors discovered gold near present-day Fairplay around 1860, but they had trouble getting there from the population centers in the valley of the South Platte River. The territorial government authorized a wagon road from Denver to Fairplay that would follow the east side of the Platte, and cross the river at what is now Union Avenue.

Seeing an opportunity, early settlers, Joseph and Samuel Brown, built a bridge and collected a small toll from those who used it. The builders of what was then called Bradford Road also charged a toll. US Highway 285, which passes through Englewood, follows much of that road today.

The territorial government authorized a wagon road from Denver to Fairplay that would follow the east side of the Platte

The Brown brothers were farmers and property owners, too. In fact, they owned virtually all the land north and south between what is now Oxford Ave. and Bowles Ave., and east and west between Lowell Boulevard and Santa Fe Drive. They had a thriving business selling produce to the miners en route to their claims.

But the Brown brothers didn’t stop there. When other early settlers also purchased land to grow crops of wheat, sugar beets, potatoes and vegetables, and raise beef cattle and milk cows, the crops required water. So Sam and Joseph Brown built an irrigation ditch to bring water to their farms. The Browns planted a half dozen or more Bur Oak trees near the ditch around 1870 and two of those trees are still alive today.

Englewood’s first settler, Thomas Skerritt, planted orchards and sold fruit to miners and Denver residents, producing a lot of traffic on the road from Denver to the gold camps in the Rocky Mountains. This contributed to the growth of both Sheridan and Englewood and the Bur Oak trees planted by Sam and Joseph Brown bore witness to the development of these towns and their local economies from their very inception.
Foundry Reborn

New, transit-oriented developments take shape at the former General Iron Works site

By the time General Iron Works closed its doors in 1986, the company had obtained more than 300 patents. An impressive list of new and improved technology was crafted at GIW, including:

- Desalination plant for use in the Dead Sea
- Sugar mill dryers and processors
- Mail sorting machine for the postal service
- Penny manufacturing machine for the U.S. Mint
- The first soft-serve ice cream machine
- Coin-operated gasoline pumps
- Luggage molds for Samsonite
- The first potato chip cooker for General Mills
Who would have imagined that General Iron Works (GIW), a custom fabrication and manufacturing shop that began operation in Englewood in 1924 would someday evolve into a new place to call home? GIW opened as a consolidation of Denver’s five main iron and machine shops of the time: Stearns-Roger Manufacturing, Vulcan Iron Works, Denver Engineering Works, Colorado Iron Works and the Queen City Foundry Company. The five long-time competitors joined together, at a time when collaboration in the industry was unheard of, to create the largest and most versatile machine shop west of Chicago.

The GIW property at 600 W. Bates Ave. occupied 17.5 acres with roughly 280,000 square feet under roof. General Iron Works employed approximately 550 people at any given time, with that number nearly doubling during WWII. Operations at GIW included design, engineering, machine-work, plate-work, castings, forgings, patterns, prefabricated piping and packaged plants.

Machinery produced here found its way into practically every major industry in the country and much of it was also exported to countries around the globe. General Iron Works impacted modern-day mining, energy, farming, water processing and electric power distribution.

The Englewood plant was known as the “Shipyard of the Rockies” during World War II because of the quantity and size of equipment produced to support the war effort. Machine tools, artillery shells, bilge and fuel transfer pumps, parts for marine boilers and turrets, and torpedo tubes for destroyers were among some of the items manufactured.

What attracted General Iron Works to the Bates Ave. location back in 1924 – a stable local economy, exceptional transportation access, proximity to Denver, a skilled workforce and close-knit community – remains the same today. That’s why it’s no surprise that after sitting relatively untouched for nearly three decades, new development will begin to breathe life back into the General Iron Works property over the next several years.

The Foundry Apartments

The 70-unit apartment complex is part of a 10-acre redevelopment adjacent to Iron Works Village. All the units will serve households making 60% or less of the area median income per year. The first tenants will begin moving in the second week of May.

The architectural elements of The Foundry Apartments are reminiscent of the original GIW foundry. These forms have been scaled to a more residential proportion so that the architecture as a whole responds to the history of the site while being responsive to the surrounding neighborhood context. Repurposed brick and iron details on the exterior of the building play homage to GIW and the residential corridors are lined with historic photos of the manufacturing plant in its heyday.

Iron Works Village

A transit oriented, new urbanist, traditional neighborhood, Iron Works Village will include a mix of 136 townhomes, duplexes, single-family residences and condos. The homes in this neighborhood will have large front porches, gabled roofs, side yards, tree lined streets and alley facing garages, reminiscent of the older, established neighborhoods in Englewood and Denver.

Home sales will begin after the development’s grand opening in June, with the first homeowners anticipated to close at the end of 2017. Phases II and III will be completed in 2018 and 2019, respectively.

BLVD Builders, the developers of Iron Works Village, specialize in infill neighborhoods that are already near schools, transit, employment centers, restaurants, shopping and parks in order to reduce urban sprawl and take advantage of long-established amenities and infrastructure.
MEET THE PETERSENS

When Kevin Petersen and his wife, Amanda, moved to Englewood three years ago, two things surprised them: the community feel and how much fun they have here.

“Englewood has more of a community feel compared to other suburbs. It’s affordable, it’s close to everything and it’s convenient. It’s been surprisingly fun to live here!”

Soon after Kevin became a Denver firefighter, the couple moved from southern California to Green Valley Ranch, and a year later bought a home in Englewood where they are busy raising their young daughter.

“In our neighborhood, there are generations that live near each other. Neighbors get together and have block parties,” he said. “People care about their neighbors here.”

Kevin juggles his firefighting schedule with monthly travel back to California to serve in the Marine Corps Reserve.

On his days off, the family enjoys the variety of Englewood’s parks, including trips to Belleview Park for the miniature train and the farm animals.

For the first time since the award was created in 1990, Englewood residents, instead of City Council members, were asked to nominate a fellow resident who exemplifies outstanding volunteer or philanthropic dedication to the community. With over a dozen nominations, and unanimous support from City Council, Doug became the 27th resident to receive the prestigious award.

In addition to serving on numerous City boards and commissions totaling over two decades of service, he is a founding member of the Englewood Historic Preservation Society.

Englewood residents who nominated Cohn were quick to provide examples of countless times he’s helped a neighbor or acquaintance in need. He can often be found shoveling snow for others, assisting a sick friend, encouraging younger residents to get involved in local civics, or educating community leaders on the important and extensive history of the city.
WHAT'S GOING UP IN ENGLEWOOD?

When Colorado’s economy is doing well, rumors start circulating that the construction crane will replace the Lark Bunting as the state bird. Colorado is among the nation’s leaders in recovery from the Great Recession, and Englewood has its share of new growth, buildings and residents.

Many development projects were completed last year, such as major expansion projects at Swedish Medical Center and Craig Hospital. Two large-scale apartment developments at Alta Cherry Hills and Oxford Station were also finished in 2016.

In addition to the new activity businesses have created on South Broadway, the City is exploring options to add new lighting, banners and wayfinding signs in the 3400 block of South Broadway. This would be part of a long-term physical improvement plan.

If the economy stays strong, it’s likely that construction cranes will keep flying around Englewood and the metro area. The Community Development Department will continue to work with development applicants and the community to ensure that Englewood’s growth contributes to the city’s long-term health and vitality.

Supporting Local Businesses
Good jobs and thriving small businesses are the lifeblood of a healthy city. In fact, small businesses with less than 50 employees represent the majority of companies in Colorado and Englewood. The City’s Economic Development Program is dedicated to helping these businesses succeed. Here’s how we do it:

• Revamped business assistance program provides a “leg up” to businesses that want to expand or invest in their future growth
• A business initiation grant assists new businesses to open their doors in Englewood
• A business acceleration grant gives established and growing businesses the opportunity to reinvest in Englewood
• New partnerships with the Aurora-South Metro Small Business Development Center and the U.S. Small Business Administration provide free consulting and free or low-cost workshops

WHAT’S PLANNED FOR 2017?

The City has new tools to assist with the budgeting process and provides opportunities for resident involvement.

Budgeting for Community Goals

In 2015, the City partnered with the Center for Priority Based Budgeting to implement a new budgeting method called Budgeting for Community Goals (BCG). This practice allows leadership to budget according to larger community goals while also having flexibility to meet the changing needs of the community. As opposed to looking at expenditures at the department level, we are transitioning to a program-based budget that will enable resources to be better allocated to programs that best meet goals established by the community.

The City has identified eight community goals, which will continue to guide our budgeting processes. They were identified through a review of the 2014 Citizen Survey, Comprehensive Plan, and Vision/Mission/Value Statements. City Council and staff also underwent a goal-defining exercise in 2015.

Balancing Act

How do you think the City of Englewood should spend your money? Balancing Act is an online budgeting tool that will help us identify the community’s priorities through resident participation. Every year, the City of Englewood’s budget is produced through a series of difficult choices and tradeoffs, and now you can tell us how you’d like funds to be spent.

Visit www.Englewood.abalancingact.com to participate. You’ll be given a hypothetical $1 million City budget and will be able to spend more (or less) money on programs and services. The anonymous information will be used throughout our budget process. Thank you for your feedback!
Mapping the greens at the Broken Tee Golf Course

BROKEN TEE PARTNERS WITH GOLF CLUB IN RWANDA

There’s an unlikely connection between Broken Tee Golf Course and Kigali Golf Course in Rwanda. When Kevin Hollern, owner of MetaGolf Learning Center at Broken Tee, played a round of golf at Kigali in 2015, he struck up a conversation with Emmanuel Ruterana.

Hollern learned that Ruterana had worked his way up from a caddy to become a member of the Rwandan national team and the Uganda Professional Golfers Association. Ruterana’s dream of playing golf professionally grew into a desire to teach golf to Rwandan children, with the ultimate goal of creating a national team in his home country.

In 2016, Holleran invited Ruterana to spend six weeks in Colorado and receive training to help launch his junior golf program. Broken Tee has also donated a large number of junior clubs and t-shirts to the Kigali Golf Club and hopes to increase their support in 2017.

Excerpts from this article appear in the Winter 2016 issue of Colorado AvidGolfer.

BACK TO THE FUTURE: Accessory Dwelling Units

Community Open House
Englewood Civic Center, Community Room
1000 Englewood Pkwy.
Tuesday, June 13, 5:30 – 8:30 PM

What is an accessory dwelling unit and what rules or regulations does the City have in place to manage them? If you’ve ever asked these questions, the upcoming open house is for you. Accessory Dwelling Units (ADUs) are small, secondary residential structures located behind a primary house or on top of a garage. Incredibly popular in the 1920s, ‘30s and ‘40s, and then falling out of favor in the 1950s, ADUs have made a slow comeback over the last 20+ years in response to a tight and expensive housing market. The Englewood City Council and Englewood Planning and Zoning Commission recently approved a rezoning at the northwest corner of East Floyd Avenue and South Logan Street to allow ADUs and have been studying the possibility of bringing back ADUs to certain areas, with special approval and permits.

A Day in the Life...

Each month, City staff take pictures throughout the community documenting their day-to-day activities. This might include attending meetings, completing hands-on projects, having fun, etc. Department directors choose a winning photo each month for an internal staff newsletter and for the Citizen Magazine. It’s fun to get a glimpse of what Englewood employees experience and do, from their perspective, on a daily basis.

Englewood Walking the Talk
To show Englewood’s commitment to energy conservation and cost savings, the City has a variety of efficiency upgrades in the works and is planning an employee energy awareness campaign to highlight energy use in municipal facilities.

Get Involved at Work and at Home
The City plans to reach out to medical businesses in the community so they can take advantage of Xcel’s bonus lighting rebates available through the end of 2017. These and other businesses will have a chance to participate in sustainable business initiatives to reduce their bottom-line costs and help the City reach its goals.

The City of Englewood, Xcel Energy, Colorado State University Extension, and the City of Littleton are partnering to offer a variety of residential workshops on home energy efficiency and renewable energy options as well. Residents will have an opportunity to learn more during the upcoming Summer Concert Series.

Look for workshop and event announcements on nextdoor.com or in future issues of the Englewood Citizen for opportunities to learn how you can save money and help Englewood reach its energy goals.

SWIMMING LESSONS

All swimming lessons on this page take place at the Englewood Recreation Center • 1155 W. Oxford Ave.

Infant and Toddler

Babes & Tots (6 months - 3 years)
Introduction to the water with a focus on safety and primary water skills including submersion, bubbles, and water play in a fun, family environment.

Jellyfish (2 ½ – 3 ½ years)
The next step for a toddler ready to explore the pool on their own, with an instructor. These little ones must be adventurous and ready to take instruction. These are graduates of the infant program and go under water willingly.

Preschool

Seahorse (3 – 5 years)
These little ones may be cautious, but are ready to start the basics. A gentle approach using songs and games is used to help them gain confidence and trust.

Seal (3 – 5 years)
These little ones are happiest going under water and are just starting to float on their own.

Otter (4 – 5 years)
These little ones can float for 10 seconds, roll over, and kick 10 meters to safety.

Sea Lion (4 – 5 years)
These are our most experienced little swimmers working on freestyle and backstroke drills, with the goal of being able to swim 15 meters with ease.

School Age

Stingray (6 – 14 years)
Swimmers with limited experience or basic skills should start here. Cautious and adventurous alike will find success in this class. Floating, kicking, and breathing will be mastered here.

Dolphin (6 – 14 years)
Swimmers will be conditioned to float, kick, and breathe for longer distances while core swimming skills are introduced and mastered. Swimmers will master freestyle and backstroke drills for 15-25 meters.

Swordfish (6 – 14 years)
Swimmers at this level are well conditioned and beginning to swim up to 25 meters of freestyle, backstroke, and elementary backstroke with ease. Dolphin kick and treading water will be introduced.

Barracuda (6 – 14 years)
Swimmers are working towards 50 meters of freestyle and backstroke with efficiency and ease. Butterfly and breaststroke drills are introduced and refined. Open turns, treading water for time, and advanced safety skills are included.

Shark (6 – 14 years)
Swimmers completing this class will have all the skills necessary to swim for fitness, join a swim team, or take lifeguard training.
