Englewood to embrace energy efficiency
City launches Community Energy Action Plan to boost its own conservation

By Allison Carney
YourHub Contributor

The city of Englewood aims to support active energy conservation, renewable energy options and cost savings throughout the city by launching its first-ever Community Energy Action Plan.

The plan was developed in coordination with community members, businesses and representatives from the city through a facilitated process sponsored by Xcel Energy’s Partners in Energy.

The plan establishes an energy vision for the community: The city of Englewood will demonstrate forward thinking and sustainable energy leadership in leveraging collaborative partnerships that achieve an affordable, adaptive and renewable energy future. This vision is supported by a 1 percent annual reduction in energy consumption through 2030 in residential, commercial and municipal properties. Compounded, this goal is greater than 12 percent and will significantly reduce the energy cost burden on residents and businesses across the city.

Leading by example, the city of Englewood has a variety of efficiency upgrades and projects planned and underway and will kick off an employee energy awareness campaign this year to highlight energy conservation in municipal buildings.

Local businesses are getting involved by taking advantage of Xcel Energy’s rebate programs that encourage high efficiency lighting, refrigeration, HVAC equipment and systems and new building design.

Englewood also plans to recognize sustainable business activities that impact bottom-line costs and help the city reach its energy reduction goals through a business showcase platform currently being developed.

The city of Englewood, Xcel Energy, Colorado State University Extension, and the city of Littleton are collaborating to offer a variety of residential workshops on home energy efficiency and renewable energy options.

So far, more than 40 residents have attended the workshops.

The next workshop is about renewable energy options on July 18 in the Englewood Civic Center Community Room.

Watch nextdoor.com and the city website for this and other upcoming events to learn how to save energy at home. Or, sign up for a Home Energy Squad visit through Xcel Energy and start saving immediately.

Learn more during Englewood’s E3 kick-off event at the Sounds of Summer Concert Series June 29 at the Englewood Civic Center Amphitheater, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Four south metro Denver spots for a summer field trip

These Arapahoe and Douglas county destinations are prime stops for fun

By JOE RUBINO | jrubino@denverpost.com |
June 20, 2017 at 5:10 pm

There are plenty of activities to keep kids busy while they’re on break — parks, pools, summer reading programs, lawn work that’s too big a pain for mom or dad — but it’s always a good idea to have some fun destinations in mind to reward them for polishing off “War and Peace” — or pulling all the weeds in the backyard.

Here are four summer field trip destinations to try in Arapahoe and Douglas counties.

Pirates Cove Water Park

Address: 1225 W. Belleview Ave., Englewood

Hours: 10 a.m.–6 p.m. daily, weather permitting

Cost: $7 to $12 on weekdays, $8 to $13 on weekends

Contact: 303-762-2683 or piratescovecolorado.com

A 35-foot tower with three water slides, a lazy river and a huge leisure pool with enough fountains, hoses and other water-dispensing devices to cool off the Death Valley. Need we say more? This city-owned oasis has been helping visitors beat the heat for more than a decade.
Snobahn Indoor Ski and Snowboard Center

Address: 6955 S. York St., No. 404, Centennial
Hours: 9 a.m.-8 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Sunday
Cost: Introductory group lessons start at $30. A private, one-on-one lesson is $90. Call ahead to reserve a spot.
Contact: 303-872-8494 or snobahn.com

Who said ski season has to end? At the time of its opening in 2016, Snobahn was only the second business with a treadmill-style ski simulator in the U.S. It's a great place for novice or never-been skiers and snowboarders to hone their skills on the adjustable ramps before hitting the slopes for real.

Castle Rock Zip Line Tours
Address: 1375 W. Plum Creek Parkway, Castle Rock
Hours: Tours begin at 8 a.m. daily. The last tour begins around 5 p.m.
Cost: Tours start at $89
Contact: 720-733-9477 or castlerockziplinetours.com

What better way to spend three hours than speeding through the air, suspended from a 1.5-mile network of wires? After visiting Castle Rock Zip Line Tours inside the town's Philip S. Miller Park, you may be hard pressed to find an adequate answer. You can also check out the park's Epic Adventure Tower and Epic Sky Trek obstacle platform. (Additional fees apply.)

CU South Denver
Address: 10035 S. Peoria St., Lone Tree
Hours: 9:30 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. Movie times vary.
Cost: General admission ranges from $8 to $12 based on age. Kids 2 and younger get in free.
Contact: 303-315-9444 or southdenver.cu.edu

Let's get educational. This 151,000-square-foot University of Colorado building features a museum, art gallery and state-of-the-art 3D movie theater. With large, permanent features like the earth biome-spanning Globeology exhibit, and other rotating exhibits, you might find yourself coming back for more.

Englewood woman sells home for nearby school

By Julie McMorris
YourHub Contributor

Marjorie De Hoff has lived in a house adjacent to Bishop Elementary for the past 42 years. She made the decision to sell the house and property to the Englewood School District.

When Bishop Elementary is rebuilt in the near future, there will be more room to expand. The school district, in turn, helped De Hoff pack and move her things to her new home across the street.

"I think this is going to be the best thing for everybody," De Hoff said. "This will help keep the students safe so that the kids don't have to worry about getting out of the car into the street."

But change is hard after 42 years, she noted.

"A house, even though it can't talk, holds memories," De Hoff said. "It's protection and safety."

De Hoff has fond memories of her kids attending Bishop Elementary.

"I used to watch them walk to school," she said. "They'd walk right around the fence and they were at school, no problem."

The house was filled with possessions that De Hoff has collected over decades.

She said she's sad to move on from her home of 42 years, but knows it's best for her and best for the school.

"I think as far as the future goes, I think it's a good thing. It's going to be sad for Bishop to be torn down because there are a lot of memories there, too. But for the condition of the building, it's good that they will tear that down and start over to be safe for the students."

De Hoff feels the same way about her house.

"I know I did the right thing for me," she said.

The house has some asbestos tiles that are not in perfect condition. Moving to the new house will be safer for her.

"Am I sad? Yes, I'm a little sad. But you have to move on in life," she said.
