In early September, our City Manager Eric Keck announced his resignation and intent to return to the private sector. During his four years of service, Keck enlivened Englewood's vision of promoting and ensuring "a high quality of life, economic vitality, and a uniquely desirable community identity."

Manager Keck leaves a great legacy in several crucial areas of the city's functions. Early on, Keck reorganized the city structure for personnel and cost effectiveness. He reduced overhead while enhancing management sophistication and delivery of service. He worked tirelessly to enhance the level of safety services throughout the city, ensuring high level fire and police infrastructure, capacity and outstanding personnel.

Additionally, Manager Keck helped us refinance our debt service, saving over a million dollars on the Civic Center building alone. Keck leveraged our assets in the wastewater treatment plant and helped us plan for the future through energy efficiencies and a biogas project. He improved our budget processes to promote a sound structural fiscal plan for the city. Finally, Keck strengthened the city with 21st century technology that provides a high level of government transparency, citizen access for public engagement, and cost saving processes. We have more work to do, but Keck set us on the right path for which we can all be thankful.

In regards to the replacement of Manager Keck, Englewood's City Charter leaves the authority for the selection process to the City Council. By the time you read this, the city should have a seasoned interim city manager in place that will provide continuity to our professional staff and city services. Council will then embark on a search process to secure a strong permanent leader for our future. This could take up to six months but we hope to be efficient and effective in hiring earlier. We will post notices on the city website to allow public input into our decision making process, welcoming your feedback. While it is a time of transition, we are confident that Keck set us on the right path for which we can all be thankful.

Walk just a few steps down and you can shop for unique gifts at Peace Cellar or head for a drink at The BoB, Englewood Grand, or our own distillery, Devil's Head. In addition, we're attracting more than just restaurants. Earlier this year, Lulu's Furniture relocated from their original LoHi home and Englewood also boosted the opening of the largest climbing gym in the US, Earth Treks, in September. I'm excited about the ancillary effects the Earth Treks opening will have on the surrounding City Center area as we start a new phase for Englewood. The anticipated openings continue into 2018 and 2019 with One Barrel and the Farmhouse Tap in these last few months of 2018 and Grow and Gather, an urban farm and food-centric marketplace near Craig Hospital on Hampden in 2019.

The community development team has done a great job of marketing our city to businesses over these past few years. The word is out on what attracted us to Englewood in the first place and I'm glad to see local businesses are seeing that as well. Several years ago, I spent most of my time focusing on activities outside of Englewood, however, over the past few years, I've started to see more reasons to stay in the neighborhood. South Broadway has flourished with great restaurants such as Acre and Aki Sushi, providing a great complement to mainstays such as Rico's Pizza or El Tepeluan. On another note, this issue of the Citizen seeks to celebrate and promote the strength of Englewood's small businesses. I hope you enjoy the variety of articles explaining how small businesses enrich our quality of life in Englewood. Do mark your calendar to shop small businesses in Englewood on November 24th and throughout the holiday season. You will meet some fantastic owners who invest in the sustainability of our great community. Happy Thanksgiving and shopping in Englewood!

On July 24, 2018 Englewood experienced a severe storm that caused widespread flash flooding. It was a storm that claimed the life of Rachel Haber, destroyed houses, displaced families, flooded businesses on Broadway and most of these homeowners and business owners had no flood insurance. It was a tragic day in Englewood, a day that many of you will never forget! But even in tragedy there can be hope. I personally witnessed neighbors coming together to help each other even when they were overwhelmed themselves with the destruction. There were people helping complete strangers. Churches sent volunteers to clean out flooded basements and clean up debris. They provided meals for people that were overwhelmed with the enormity of getting life back to normal (and many still are struggling). I saw the community coming together to help one another in time of distress.

One of our greatest assets as a community is the care and concern we have for one another. When we face difficulties, it seems to bring out the best in people. This storm highlighted one of the major challenges facing Englewood. We have an aging infrastructure that needs to be addressed. The storm drain system as well as many other systems have been neglected. On September 17, City Council approved a contract for a Stormwater Analysis and Alternatives Feasibility Study. This study will focus on: Life Safety Assessment & Flood Proofing; Outfall Systems and Capital Project Prioritization; and an Oxford Avenue Pipe Conditions Assessment. In anticipation of acting on the study’s outcomes, Council has discussed immediately increasing stormwater fees. It has also been suggested that Council stop adding to the city’s density immediately until we upgrade the infrastructure to support it. It may seem like a daunting task, but together we can accomplish it.

Over the years, Englewood has been a resilient community and it will continue to be! We live in an amazing community because we have amazing citizens that care for one another. Together we can face any challenge that confronts us.

I consider it a great privilege and responsibility to be your public servant. If you have any questions or concerns I can help you in any way, please do not hesitate to contact me.

When I moved to Englewood in 2009, I saw it as a great place to raise a family with its great parks and affordable homes. I also really liked its proximity to Denver and surrounding areas. South Pearl was biking distance away and with my friends and family scattered across the metro area, it was great to know metro area, it was great to know
Thank you Englewood! After four years of overseeing the operations of this great City, I resigned my position in October. It was an incredible honor and privilege to serve the City of Englewood as your City Manager.

Together, our community and organization accomplished a lot during that time and I am very thankful for the many great residents, businesses, not-for-profit organizations and employees that I have had the opportunity to meet.

Englewood is truly an incredible community of people who care for people. The volunteer spirit and care that people have for one another is incomparable to anywhere else that I have lived. As I leave, my hope is that Englewood continues to maintain its small-town feel while at the same time growing and adding a diverse housing and business mix that is vibrant and attractive to everyone.

Thank you for a great four years. I am proud of what my staff and I were able to accomplish during that time. I look forward to seeing what Englewood will become in the future and will be watching with anticipation.

Eric A. Keck, Former City Manager

Winter in Englewood has always brought snowfall, but some years have seen more than others. We often take for granted that the roads are cleared within a few hours of the blizzard letting up, but, of course, it hasn’t always been that easy.

One of Englewood’s earliest recorded blizzards was in 1913, when four feet of snow dumped on Englewood and Denver in just a few hours. Roofs on some businesses collapsed from the weight and police struggled to clear the streets with assistance from horse-drawn snow plows. Streetcars were stalled and could not be moved until the tracks thawed or the ice was hacked away, leaving many people stranded. Food supply was critical and crippled railroads were unable to move the 23,000 tons of coal needed to heat the homes and hospitals in the area. Many people were stuck at work, unable to get home until paths were cleared to let electric street cars pass and schools were closed until after Christmas.

Over time, the City developed better systems and structures for dealing with massive snowfall. Still, a heavy winter storm could take a toll, as happened on Christmas in 1982. Snow accumulated in drifts up to 10 feet high throughout the City, damaged buildings, and created a snow-removal logistical nightmare. A blizzard on Thanksgiving in 1985 was slightly milder in intensity, but still left the City digging out of deep drifts and with many structural repairs needed.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

The Broda family knows it takes courage to start a business, and luckily for them, they all have it. Enough, at least, for all three family members to start their own business in January this year.

Katie owns Wag Walk Repeat – a dog walking and pet sitting company that keeps her busy walking up to 10 dogs a day and occasional canine sleepovers. Her Instagram account, @wagwalkrepeat5280, is filled with pictures of her loving on her dog clients; it’s clear they adore her too!

Eric runs a financial planning firm in Greenwood Village: MARGIN. His firm charges flat-fees and specializes in detailed planning for pre-retirees and HENRYs: High Earners Not Rich Yet. He also hosts a podcast called “REAL Financial Planning” with guests and conversations like how to talk to your kids about money, and 21 questions to ask your financial advisor. He also volunteers as a member of the City’s Firefighter Pension Board.

And then there’s Love – Katie and Eric’s 10-year-old daughter – who runs Courage Urban Family Gardens out of the family’s front and backyard. She uses 2,400 square feet of soil to grow vegetables and flowers that she sells in weekly subscriptions. Each basket contains whatever is growing in season – carrots, cucumbers, tomatoes, kale, flowers – and it’s delivered weekly.

Up next for the entrepreneurial family is another step toward courage – literally. The Broad’s are legally changing their last name to Courage. Then the family of three will be Eric, Katie, Love, and (their dog) Luna Courage. Yep, that sounds about right.

THE SNOWBALL EFFECT OF SHOPPING LOCAL

Give the gift that gives back to your community by shopping Englewood this holiday season

The benefits of shopping local last long after the cash register is closed and the holiday rush is over. Independent Englewood businesses circulate and recirculate a far greater percentage of revenue locally compared to chains or online retailers, leading to greater wealth and more jobs in the community.

Keeping our holiday dollars in Englewood benefits the City in a number of ways.

A healthier, wealthier community.
Spending locally puts your dollars in the hands of other residents, generating lasting impact on the prosperity of other community organizations, businesses and the City itself.

A boost to the Englewood economy.
Every dollar you spend at a local business returns three times more money to the local economy than one spent at a chain, and almost 50 times more than buying from an online mega-retailer.

More opportunity.
Many Englewood businesses employ Englewood residents. Shopping local means supporting the businesses and individuals providing jobs for your friends and neighbors.

Sustainable shopping.
Independently owned businesses consume less land, use less fossil fuels to transport their products and are located closer to their customers – creating less traffic and air pollution. Shopping locally also reduces the number of returned gifts that must be shipped back the way they came, generating twice the packaging waste and transportation pollution.

Tax savings.
The more efficient land use and closer location to consumers means local businesses put less demand on Englewood roads, sewers and safety services. They also generate more tax revenue per sales dollar, giving the City more resources to put towards schools, infrastructure, parks and recreation and all the great things that make Englewood an amazing place to live.

So before your start searching the internet for that perfect gift this season, consider coming out and supporting the local economy. You may find that ‘tis more blessed to give to small business than to receive 2-day free shipping to your door.
The best view of North America’s largest indoor climbing gym is seen on the top of the wall. From there you can see all of Englewood’s 53,000-square foot Earth Treks Climbing and Fitness facility. It features world-class climbing and bouldering, along with amenities such as a yoga studio, fitness and cardio zones, climbing classes, a fully-stocked retail gear shop, high-end locker rooms and onsite childcare.

“We’re thrilled to open this new facility in Englewood and become a part of the thriving neighborhood,” stated Earth Treks CEO, Robert Cohen. “The Denver community has always been great to us and is already extremely involved in climbing, adventure and fitness. With the nearby University of Denver and Denver Tech Center and convenient access to light rail and bike trails, we expect many locals to capitalize on the location to try something new, take their fitness to the next level, and join an amazing new social network.”

The Englewood facility is taking over the previous corporate headquarters of Sports Authority. Earth Treks employed JR Bernlohr Architects to design the new facility, which involved constructing a new 50-foot high roof to accommodate high-roped climbing.

The Englewood facility will be the second Earth Treks facility in Colorado, with another located west of Denver in Golden.

Along with climbing, bouldering, yoga, and fitness amenities, the Englewood gym has multiple features which will help foster a sense of community. A gathering area, which sits between the high-roped climbing and bouldering zones, will serve as the central space for the facility, providing a place for guests to congregate when they are not climbing and doubling as a stage or space for events. The space will additionally feature other communal areas which people can use as work spaces or lounges.

“Our gyms are more than just climbing, yoga and fitness facilities – they are places for people to come together, make new friends and challenge themselves,” stated Cohen. “We look forward to becoming a part of the bustling Englewood community.”

BANKING ON BIOGAS

New wastewater treatment process will save Englewood energy and money

South Platte Wastewater Renewal Partners (SPWRP) received approval in August from City Council to move forward with its Biogas Project, a cutting-edge sustainable solution to treating wastewater with significant economic benefits. Construction is set to begin in October 2018.

Biogas is a byproduct of the wastewater treatment process, created when bacteria break down waste material. It’s made up mainly of methane gas with traces of carbon dioxide (CO2), sulfur compounds, water vapor and particulates. These impurities can be removed, converting the biogas into usable, renewable natural gas. With the new project, this gas will be sold to Xcel Energy and injected into its national natural gas pipeline grid.

Treatment of the waste from nearly 300,000 SPWRP customers generates around 470,000 cubic feet of biogas every day. This is equivalent to approximately 2,100 gallons of gasoline. Converting biogas into natural gas is not only making use of what is normally wasted in a conventional water treatment process, it will also offset costs with the added income from selling the gas to Xcel. For the residents of Englewood, this means reducing our carbon footprint costs with the added income from selling the gas to Xcel. Register for Englewood’s Citizen Planning School

The Citizen Planning School (CPS) is a free educational program available to any City of Englewood resident or business owner interested in learning more about the role planning plays in building communities. The CPS program is a five-week course that provides an introduction to community planning, transportation, zoning, community building, and the development process. The goal of the program is to empower participants with a better understanding of community planning so they can effectively understand planning efforts, both in their neighborhood and throughout the City.

SNOW FOOLIN’

Time to break out the shovel

Much of the country pictures Colorado entirely snowbound for half the year. Some years, that can be true. In the City of Englewood, we usually get a handful of snowstorms each season. Before the flakes fly, be aware of your responsibilities as a citizen – property owner, business owner, and rental tenant – for snow and ice removal.

Keep Sidewalks Accessible

Keeping the full width of sidewalks clear of snow and ice is the neighborly and safe thing to do. The opportunities for slip-and-fall accidents increase in the winter months and shoveling sidewalks and steps goes a long way to prevent injuries.

Take Action

Once the snow stops falling, occupants have 12 hours to clear public sidewalks, per the City’s Municipal Code. Snow from sidewalks abutting city streets may be spread evenly in the road to help break it up. Snow from walkways on private property should stay on the private property – your plants and landscaping will benefit come spring.

Need Help? Offer Help!

If you are aware of a neighbor that may need help clearing snow, reach out and offer your assistance. Likewise, if you need help clearing your walks, talk to your neighbors. We have a close and friendly community and most people are willing to assist.

Use a limited amount of salt to melt ice, if necessary.

Get some traction. Once the sidewalk is cleared, sprinkling a little sand or kitty litter can help prevent slipping.

Check on your neighbors. Some folks may need a little extra help.

Out of town?

Arrange for snow removal during planned vacations.

PLANNED VACATION? Arrange snow removal during your absence.

14 SNOW SHOVELING TIPS

Choose your shovel wisely. Ergonomically-designed shovels can help reduce the amount of bending you have to do.

Once the snow stops – the race is ON. Englewood residents have 12 hours to clear public walks adjoining their property.

Warm up. Warm your muscles before heading out to shovel by doing some light movements, such as bending side to side or walking in place.

Push rather than lift. Pushing the snow with the shovel instead of lifting can help reduce the strain on your body. When lifting snow, bend your knees and use your legs when possible.

Wait for the snow plows. Be aware if you are on a snowplow route – they are out early and often – wait until they pass to do your shoveling.

Remember those fire hydrants – shovel them out too – because your neighbor might need them.

Full width. Shovel the full width of the sidewalk.

All the way down. Shovel to the concrete and remove all ice.

A little salt. Use a limited amount of salt to melt ice, if necessary.

Get some traction. Once the sidewalk is cleared, sprinkling a little sand or kitty litter can help prevent slipping.

Consider multiple rounds. Consider shoveling periodically throughout the storm to avoid having to move large amounts of snow at once.

Pile on. Pile snow on the property rather than in the street or the alley.

Check on your neighbors. Some folks may need a little extra help.

City staff selected these great images from local photogs around our community.

CULTIVATING A HEALTHY ENGLEWOOD FOR POLLINATORS

There are 946 native bee species in Colorado, and each of them plays a key role in our agriculture and wild landscapes. Pollination is a keystone process in biodiversity. Animals, including vertebrates and mammals, pollinate 80 percent of all flowering plant species, but the main pollinators are insects. Bees, birds and bats affect 35 percent of the world’s crop production; this means that one of every three bites of food we eat can be attributed to a pollinator.

To support pollinators, plant a variety of native plants that bloom throughout the growing season. And let those dandelions grow! They are the first food source for bees after the long cold winter. Bees also love the wild clover, common sage, and anything wild that comes out of the ground and flowers.

Ask your local nursery for pesticide-free plants to avoid the neonicotinoids, which are a new class of systemic pesticides that can cause an entire plant to have a pesticide within it—leaves, pollen, etc. Pesticides and herbicides are intended for specific pest species, but studies show that there are lethal consequences for non-target species such as bees, butterflies, and birds. See the Environmental Working Group’s “Clean 15” and “Dirty Dozen” lists for easy grocery shopping references on what foods test low and high for pesticides.

Volunteers are also needed to help plant the statewide pollinator highways – visit peopleandpollinators.org to get involved. Help reduce and phase out biocide usage in Englewood for the health of our pollinators, people and the environment. Learn more at sustainable-englewood.org.

Oh My!

Construction of Englewood’s new police headquarters continues to move forward and remains on schedule for a February 2019 Phase 1 completion. Since the project’s June 20, 2018, topping out ceremony, workers have been busy with framing; adding stairs; installing mechanical, electrical and plumbing materials; hanging drywall; and applying sheathing and brick to the exterior.

Next up, passersby may see final roof and window installation, as well as brick and stonework on the exterior. Inside, work continues on drywall, paint and ceilings.

Phase 2, which includes demolition of the existing building and construction of the parking lot, is scheduled to be complete at the end of July 2019.

Cross-Country, Snowshoe, or Shopping
Adding a twist to outdoor trips: shopping! If you do not want to hit the snow but want to get out into the mountains, ride the Malley Ski Bus to a mountain town. Explore, shop, have lunch, and the Malley Ski Bus will pick you back up at the end of the day. Find the destinations to the right.

Grab your skis, choose your favorite location, and hit the snow! Get your equipment tuned before you go, so you don’t miss a thing. Bring your lunch and ski equipment. Fee includes transportation. If too different locations are indicated for that day, the driver will be dropping off at both locations. You may cross-country ski, snowshoe, or downhill ski. If you are new to the sport or need improvement, lessons are available at most locations. Destinations are subject to change. Registration deadline is 7 days prior to the trip.

Catch the Ride
If you live in Lakewood, Golden, or on the west side of the Denver metro area and want to go skiing but do not want to drive, catch a ride on the Malley Ski Bus. The Bus will pick you up at the parking lot off I-70 and Morrison Road. You must register through Malley and pre-arrange the pickup with Cheryl.
