The suddenness of the COVID-19 pandemic has impacted every household, every business, and everyone’s lives. While this most certainly has had a negative impact on all of us, it has been very encouraging to see the entire community mobilize quickly to help one another.

We’ve seen many examples of the community taking steps to help our residents such as Change the Trend providing grocery delivery for our elderly or those with heightened risk, Englewood Schools delivering Chromebooks to students for the start of remote learning and also providing a daily lunch/breakfast option for community members. It’s also planning to celebrate the graduating class of 2020 by hosting a responsible, socially-distanced parade in the coming months. The City has looked to connect people virtually by setting up weekly community sharing circles and also partnering residents with one another through our phone buddies program to provide some social interaction while we’re limited by social distancing guidelines.

The impact to businesses has been equally as swift with most having to shut their doors and reduce staff. With expenses still coming due, the City quickly repurposed an existing business grant to the COVID-19 Small Business Support and Recovery Grant, providing $2,000 to over 100 Englewood small businesses. The Englewood Chamber of Commerce rapidly mobilized as well, holding regularly scheduled calls with local businesses and providing feedback to staff while also compiling lists of Englewood small businesses that remain open as part of the #TimeforTakeout campaign.

It is in unprecedented times like these we see the true nature of the City of Englewood, one of helping, compassion and forward thinking. It is inspiring to see Englewood citizens fall back on the true nature of who we are as a City. We come together and hold one another strong.

Othoniel Sierra, Mayor Pro Tem, District 1

The five-year financial plan, increasing revenues from approximately $1 million in 2020 to $3.5 million in 2024, supports debt services on approximately $30 million for the projects above.

While Council never wants to raise rates for our residents and businesses, our aging—and in some cases failing—infrastructure must remain a top priority for the City of Englewood in the years ahead. We hope that the gradual increase over time will ensure that our infrastructure can perform at a standard we all expect.

Again, thank you for all you are doing to make our community safer and healthier in the months ahead. Be well.

Linda Olson, Mayor

These past couple of months have been a very harrowing time for us. It has been a time of unprecedented lockdown marked by a loss of loved ones, increased unemployment, business closures and a general feeling of uncertainty. Since the day this all began, our lives have changed dramatically. We have voluntarily stayed at home to protect others and ourselves from the spread of this pandemic. We can get through this together!

This is not the first time Englewood has faced difficulties. Over the years, there have been many situations that threatened to overwhelm and defeat us. I am reminded of the Platte River flood in the early 60s, the oil crisis in the 70s, a couple of recessions, the swine flu and most recently the flash flood of 2018. In all of these situations, I saw neighbors coming together to help each other in their times of distress!

What we are facing right now seems to be more daunting than all these past events, but the solution is the same. I have already seen it happening in our neighborhoods, at the grocery store and waiting in line for takeout — people helping people. First responders and businesses that adapted to help us. You are all doing an amazing job!

Today the sun came up, the spring flowers are blooming, the birds are singing and people are ready to get their lives back to normal. Businesses are preparing to reopen following strict guidelines to keep us all safe. It has been a difficult time for everyone. We have put our lives and our livelihoods on hold not knowing the outcome.

We need to continue helping each other and together we will get through this difficult time!

God Bless You All! Together We Will Make a Difference!

A ROADMAP FOR THE FUTURE
Council’s Vision and Strategic Plan

The City has created a roadmap to assist City Council with developing a Vision and Strategic Plan that will help guide the future of Englewood for years to come. The process includes community feedback on the final Plan and will be used as a guide for Council decisions, City operations and spending priorities. To see the plan and give feedback, visit englewoodco.gov/strategicplan.

CREATING A SENSE OF PLACE
Englewood’s Central Business District gets ready for a facelift

The City of Englewood is a bustling hub of activity. We have unique restaurants and businesses, world-class healthcare, a robust transportation network, a thriving arts community and so much more.

However, one of the City’s challenges is to create a unique “sense of place” that differentiates us from other communities. To many, it is unclear when you’ve entered or exited Englewood’s city limits. The Central Business District includes Civic Center, South Broadway and Old Hampden, which are unique places within the community and have the potential to be a gathering place for residents and an attraction for those in the surrounding Denver metropolitan area. But, these areas lack a strong identity.

Over the next few months, the City will be working with a local steering committee to develop a Wayfinding and Placemaking Master Plan. That Master Plan is intended to provide the City with ideas and concepts that reinforce the City’s identity. This includes recommendations for public art installations; lighting; landscaping; and wayfinding signage to help navigate and identify Englewood. This project includes an opportunity for residents and businesses to provide their feedback regarding design preferences. Visit englewoodco.gov to learn more and follow along with our progress.

HOW TO GET TO KNOW YOUR NEIGHBORS

Get to Know Your Neighbor Grant
This new grant gives neighbors an opportunity to get to know their neighbors. The grant is intended to remove any barriers that keep you from connecting with your neighbors. The grant (which comes in amounts of $100, $300 or $500) can be used for food, supplies or activities for a neighborhood get-together or event, like a block party, ice cream social, parade, neighborhood clean up, etc. Residents from any Englewood neighborhood can apply online at englewoodco.gov/neighborhoods.

Mobile Community Outreach Stand
In an effort to encourage informal neighborhood participation, Hinkfuss will set up the Mobile Community Outreach Stand in a variety of neighborhoods and parks throughout the summer. The stand will have yard games, and Hinkfuss along with various other community leaders (council members, police officers, etc.) will serve soft drinks/lemonade to residents in the neighborhood. Find dates and locations at englewoodco.gov/neighborhoods.
Englewood’s Plan for Water, Sewer and Stormwater Infrastructure

The stormwater system prevents flooding and sink holes by carrying water from rainstorms away from land, streets and parking lots and into the South Platte River. Many of the pipes that carry this water are nearly 65 years old and are too small for the volume of water.

Englewood’s water is clean, but older pipes from the source to your home can cause poor taste and discoloration. Replacing these lines will improve drinking water quality.

The South Platte Wastewater Plant treats our wastewater and returns it to nature.

Englewood estimates about $263 Million to complete all infrastructure improvements.

- $35 Million for storm drainage over the next five years
- $168 Million for drinking water repairs over the next 15 years
- $60 Million for sewer repairs over the next 15 years

Englewood residents keep our city thriving by Flowing It Forward.

Repairing and upgrading our infrastructure will bring these benefits to our community: Stormwater system improvements will decrease flooding and reduce sinkholes. Sewer system improvements will decrease sewer backups, prevent sewer line collapses and lower maintenance costs. Water system updates will improve water quality, reduce the number of lead service lines, prevent water line failures and eliminate wasteful leaks.

Englewood residents keep our city thriving by Flowing It Forward.

Englewood residents keep our city thriving by Flowing It Forward.

Deferring the final needs for the water and sewer infrastructure repairs and replacements (similar to investments underway currently for stormwater), rates will need to increase accordingly beginning in 2021.

Average Monthly Water & Sewer Rates for Other Cities

- $133.90
- $102.98
- $73.13
- $72.75
- $70.57
- $57.49
- $46.86
- $29.49
- $24.27

*Estimated monthly residential total rate comparison at 6kgal for water and wastewater for fiscal year 2020. Rates do not include stormwater.

Flow it Forward is Englewood’s ongoing plan to replace our outdated systems and properly maintain them in the future.

Our infrastructure components must be continuously improved to ensure the city’s sewer, water and storm runoff systems are properly functioning, to serve our community and keep our residents safe. Many elements of our systems are more than 90 years old, well beyond their recommended lifespan, and are in urgent need of replacement. Englewood has over 300 miles of water, sewer or stormwater pipes, many of which must be repaired or replaced over the next 15 years. And, both treatment plants require significant mechanical improvements.
COVID-19 RESPONSE

CITY OF ENGLEWOOD PROACTIVELY RESPONDS TO COVID-19

Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, the City of Englewood and the Englewood community have been incredibly responsive, acting quickly to prioritize the safety of residents, the needs of local businesses, and launching new programs to support the community in new ways.

Englewood took the threat of the pandemic seriously from the beginning. Arapahoe County, working in unison with the City, activated its Emergency Operations Center (EOC) to Level 3 on February 27. The next day, communications staff partnered with the Joint Information Center to ensure clear, consistent and timely information was delivered to residents throughout the County.

City Manager Shawn Lewis acted quickly to declare a local disaster emergency on March 13, initiating more local funding and support from state and federal resources. On March 17, the EOC increased its response to Level 1, with full activation and additional staff. Just days later, all City facilities were closed, and City Council moved to virtual meetings.

In partnership with The Greater Englewood Chamber of Commerce, the Time-for-Takeout campaign was launched in mid-March. This was a joint effort to support local restaurants and encourage residents to order food and beverages. The take-away service is what has saved many restaurants from having to shut down entirely during the duration of the pandemic.

While urging residents to stay home, the City also launched its Small Business Support and Recovery Grant. When initially launched, 100 Englewood businesses affected by the pandemic each received $2,000 grants within three weeks. Vaneeet Gupta, owner of Digital Medial innovations, used his grant to pay the healthcare premiums of his workers. “My wife has a business in another city,” said Gupta. “And I must say that I basically made her jealous when I talk about all of the resources Englewood has been providing us.”

“I feel like there’s a big support for small businesses, especially in Englewood,” added Frame de Art’s Brian Hart. “I’m keeping my head up, hoping we can get through this, and then I think we have a great future,” he continued. City Council allocated an additional $100,000 that has funded an additional 50 businesses.

The Small Business Support and Recovery Grant was quickly followed by the Rent Assistance Program, which launched April 7 to protect residents from evictions. The Program is available to Englewood residents with a household income of 300% of the Federal Poverty Level or less. For information about the program, or to apply, visit englewoodco.gov/recovery.

Throughout the shelter-in-place order, Englewood worked to offer virtual programs to keep residents healthy and connected. The Englewood Virtual Recreation Center launched in April, offering resources for staying active. The Neighborhood Resources Program quickly set up initiatives to allow residents to stay connected and foster community while staying at home. The Virtual Community Sharing Circle has at least 10 attendees each Friday. For more information, visit englewoodco.gov/neighborhoods.

The community has a lot to be proud of when it comes to our collective response to this global disaster. The City reopened with minimal staffing levels on May 4 and reopened to the public on May 11, in accordance with state guidelines. If you can do business with the City virtually, please continue to do so. We will continue to do everything in our power to keep residents safe and well informed.

For more information on response and recovery, please visit englewoodco.gov/coronavirus or englewoodco.gov/recovery.

MEET GEORGE GASTIS, THE GREEN THUMB BEHIND ENGLEWOOD’S GROW + GATHER

You can’t get much more local than eating fresh produce that was grown on the roof above your head. George Gastis, owner and founder of Grow + Gather—an urban farm, restaurant, market and community space—isn’t your typical restaurateur.

After 25 years in the tech and marketing field, Gastis followed his passion for great food, gardening, and cooking. He saw potential in the Old Hampden neighborhood in Englewood’s medical district and bought a building.

With such a unique concept involving a farm, restaurant and market, Grow + Gather did not fit into any particular zoning category, requiring Gastis to work with the City and zoning commission throughout the process.

“Everyone we worked with along the way was helpful, supportive and excited about what we were doing,” he said.

Since opening its doors on Dec. 12 last year, the space has regularly been bustling with visitors. Gastis intentionally designed the space to be accessible, a feature that brings in patients from Craig Hospital and their family and friends.

In addition to shopping and dining, Gastis offers classes as well as unique food experiences, like their Sunday Supper—a family-style meal that brings people together around food. He also has plans to start a farmer’s market.

Like other restaurants in Colorado affected by the COVID-19 outbreak, Grow + Gather had to drop the “gather” temporarily and adopt a takeout-only policy. Officials were still discussing a timetable for easing restrictions when this magazine went to press.

ADAPTATIONS DURING COVID-19

When the community shut down due to the COVID-19 crisis, Grow + Gather took steps to make sure employees stayed on the payroll and food continued to be supplied from farm to fork. Employees agreed to take pay cuts across the board in order to ensure all staff could remain at work. While business may have halted at the restaurant, employees who would have been busing tables or pouring drinks were instead assigned to cultivate long-term projects, such as working in the plant greenhouse or installing beehives. The Grow + Gather kitchen also kept busy thanks to donations from the community. Generous patrons contributed money for meals and cookies that were delivered to hospital health care workers and nearby families of patients.

You would never have recognized the Englewood Public Library when it first opened in 1920. From its early beginnings as a single, quiet room to a bustling, super-connected community hub and multicultural gathering space, it consistently continues to adapt to the needs of Englewood residents.

Once upon a time, a girl dreamed of a library
Inspired by her young daughter, an Englewood mother contributed the girl’s life savings—$1.50—toward the cost of a future library. It was the first recorded donation to the cause.

Several years later, in May of 1920, a small room was rented in a former mortuary on Broadway for only $35 a month. The library officially opened June 1, 1920. The new service was well-received and by May of 1921, the Library had collected 2,844 donated books that residents with a library card could check out.

Much more than a library
The Englewood Public Library, located on the first floor of the Civic Center, utilizes 35,000 sq. ft. and is a far cry from the quiet study room it once was.

Some of the most popular free offerings for adults include ELL, genealogy and computer classes—including advanced Word and Excel—held in the computer lab.

In addition to classes, the Library fosters local art and food culture by featuring a rotating art exhibit and hosting a reception where visitors can meet the artist as well as sample local cuisine from an Englewood restaurant.

Since June 1, 1920 the Library has never lost sight of its mission

Did you know, statistics show that people visit their public library more often than they attend NFL, NHL, NBA, Nascar, and movie theaters combined?

Epilogue: Here to stay
“We know we’re not going anywhere,” Adult Services Librarian Michelle Brandstetter said. “People who think that libraries are going out of business clearly haven’t been to a library in a long time.” The Library is dynamic and continues to adapt to the changing needs of its community.

"The Technical Services team loves the process of bringing our patrons new items on an ongoing basis both in print and online, while keeping materials in good order. We celebrate the enthusiasm of our Library patrons today and over the last 100 years,” stated Selene Gardner, Technical Services Librarian.

The Library already has immediate plans to expand resources offered by utilizing Prospector, a combined catalog of libraries across Colorado and Wyoming, adding access to university libraries. “By providing access to an additional 30+ million items, even after all these years we are finding ways to keep our collection fresh and interesting for our patrons,” added Megan Kennedy, Access Services Librarian.

Even with the library closed to the public during the COVID-19 situation, library staff continues to provide some services to residents by answering phone calls and emails, and in many situations directing people to coronavirus resources.

SAVE OUR TREE CANOPY

Trees, whether on public or private property, provide the very necessities of life. They clean our air, protect our drinking water, create healthy communities and feed our soul. Currently, it’s estimated that more than 150,000 trees reside on private property in Englewood.

The City of Englewood has a special rule to address proper maintenance of trees. It states that it is the responsibility of homeowners to maintain, remove and protect trees on their property, as well as trees on the public right of way adjacent to their property. Failure to do so may result in fines and a Municipal Court summons.

Many of our trees are dead or dying and we anticipate that 22,500 ash trees currently residing on private property could die within the next five years due to an infestation of the Emerald Ash Borer (EAB). EAB is a boring beetle that is destroying ash trees and our urban tree canopy on private property, as well as trees on the public right of way adjacent to their property. Failure to do so may result in fines and a Municipal Court summons.

As with any public comment process, participation in Input Now! is voluntary; City officials will consider input from this forum along with other communication channels. However you choose to participate, thanks for helping us build a better Englewood.

How to care for trees on your property
Start now to assess your existing trees and note their condition. Do they need pruning, a trim, fertilizer or should they be removed? Plan to address those needs now and conduct an inventory of your ash trees.
You can identify ash trees yourself using an online tool at beasmartash.org or download the app “EAB/Ash Tree ID.” Alternatively, you can contact a local arborist for assistance.

DOWNTOWN PLAN TO INCLUDE COVID-19 ECONOMIC RECOVERY

The Downtown Matters team continues to develop an action plan for downtown Englewood and is currently refocusing the plan to respond to unprecedented disruption caused by the coronavirus pandemic.

“This is a tremendously difficult time for businesses, and we hope that the strategies developed in the downtown action plan can help businesses bounce back quickly,” said Shawn Lewis, Englewood City Manager.

The City’s Chief Redevelopment Officer Dan Poremba has noted that Downtown Development Authorities in many communities are working to help prepare property owners and business owners to recover from coronavirus. “Working with the Steering Committee, we’ll design Englewood’s Downtown Development Authority to make recovery the top short-term priority.”

Business Emergency Relief
The City is administering support and recovery grants for small businesses up to $2,000. Qualifications and details can be found on the City website.

The Greater Englewood Chamber of Commerce is posting information about local, state and federal economic relief programs for businesses and employees. They’re also promoting restaurants offering take-out services. More information can be found at MyEnglewoodChamber.com

The Downtown Matters action plan will also encourage workweek customers to patronize local restaurants, bars and stores, so when shops and restaurants reopen, they’ll be filled with local workers.

To learn more about the Downtown Matters initiative, visit englewoodco.gov/government/englewood-downtown-matters.
GET INVOLVED

HOW ARE WE DOING?
Take our survey and be heard

The City of Englewood is conducting a citizen survey to gauge satisfaction with municipal government service delivery and measure perceptions of the City. It’s important to routinely check in with the community to see how we’re doing, and your feedback will help the City better plan for our future.

By partnering with National Research Center (NRC), a third-party research firm, we are also able to compare community satisfaction with peer cities and other municipalities across the Front Range.

What will we ask?
The survey will focus on community livability and includes questions about your quality of life, local policies, demographics, rating of local government services and other important topics such as off-leash dog rules.

Who can take the survey?
A random and scientific sample of 1,700 households will receive invitations to participate by mail and their confidential responses will be weighted and analyzed. Surveys will be mailed in mid-May. If you receive a request to participate, we hope you’ll take the time to share your thoughts with us. Have questions about the survey? Contact Communications Manager Chris Harguth at charguth@englewoodco.gov.
